

HTTP Header

HTTP headers are fields that can be transmitted as part of HTTP request or response messages. They provide additional parameters or information for the transaction being performed.

An HTTP header consists of a field name for identification and a value containing the data.

More information is available at <https://www.iana.org>

From:
<http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/> - Inteno Glossary

Permanent link:
http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/h/http_header

Last update: 2018/08/10 18:16

