

XML-RPC

XML-RPC is a remote procedure call (RPC) protocol which uses XML to encode its calls via HTTP.

XML-RPC uses method calls to the service and passes parameters to the remote method to achieve results.

Parameter styles can be nested or use maps and lists, allowing for objects and structures both as input and output.

Most HTTP security methods can be used for authorization.

From:

<http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/> - Inteno Glossary

Permanent link:

<http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/x/xmlrpc>

Last update: 2018/08/10 18:16

